

Investigative and Discovery Support for Complex Matters

Wildproof provides investigative and discovery-focused analytical support for complex criminal matters. The work is designed to help defense teams manage scale, restore clarity to large bodies of evidence, and make strategic decisions grounded in what the evidence actually shows.

Large federal cases rarely lack evidence. They suffer from fragmentation. When discovery is massive and timelines are compressed, critical details can be missed, misaligned, or accepted without sufficient scrutiny.

Discovery mastery and analysis, chronology and timeline development, cross-defendant evidence mapping, pattern and inconsistency identification, and issue-specific analytical support to inform defense strategy.

Wildproof operates in an investigative support capacity only and does not provide legal advice or legal representation. All analysis is intended to support counsel's independent legal judgment.

Experience includes support on federally indicted, multi-defendant matters involving allegations such as trafficking, peonage, and government fraud, with extensive discovery and complex evidentiary overlap.

Wildproof operates as a flexible investigative support resource. Engagements may be short-term or issue-specific, with remote work as the standard and in-person support available as needed.